Scater?

In order to preserve the smallest show of consistency, these Damocratic advocates of squatter-sovereignty in Kentucky would be constrained to damone-eth-frugitive-Kave-Law as an unwarranted, unconstitutional, and impolitic interfarence of Congress with the effire of the States, and sterrily demand its repeal, in the interest of their new-fangled writing the power to get the people of the States, and sterrily deviced by shrink from the legislamate and necessary application of pointerpoints of their replication of their repeal, in the interest of their new-fangled writing their best or worst to get the people of the Soath are entitled noder the constitution to the delivery of their fagitive layers. It is a constitutional right; but so is their right to protection in the Territory, when the inhabitants were few and testered, and new to one another. In other interest of the saverign States, with like impunity, violate in the Territory, when the inhabitants were few and settled, and constitutional right; but so is their right to protection in the Territory is come form of civil authority, violate another? Has Congress any more right of power to ease another? The Soath are entitled in the Territory, as being the most competant to the asserting of the Soath are entitled in the Territory, as being the most competant to the asserting state, with like impunity, violate another? Has Congress any more right of power to ease and the condition of the Erritory and the condition of the Territory and the condition of the cond expelliption of non-interrestion, which they are bound, in all consistency, to antice with the Back Republicans in repealing at the very earliest occasion. If the doctrine of these kentucky Democrats is true, if it approximates the truth, if there is anything at all tolerable in it, the facilities. Back Republicans in the action of the second of th Fagitive-Slave Law, according to their own arguments, tone of the most gigantic and monstroous age of curiosity. The situation is critical. A felicitous stroks of subtlety will put you in every body's mouth. With we are not dispose to underrate the neefulness of the particular kind of talent of which Mr. John Sildell is the possessor, yet we must be permitted to express a regret that that talent should not be permitted to neek some more appropriate field for its development and exercise than the State Department at Washington. We need a Statesman thers—If one can be got—and not a politician. An lesser evil, indeed, wa should prefer, awhile longer, the largenor or inspitude of General Case, to the dashing but loose-principled fillibusterism of Mr. Sildell.

Our neighbor of the Democrat is getting to be great on anecdotes. He is out with another in his paper of yesterday. As usual, the point is blunt, and the application strained. We suppose, however, our neighbor concluded that if he hald or for a fit occasion he might well forever. If he can't find applications, his way is to force them "Miserable man, "said an officer who was passing by a grave. digger the evening after a battle, "why you have just sumbled is a man who ttill breathed ir," repl ed the grave-digger, "it le easy to see that you are not accustomed to it as I am. If I war top to listen to them there would never b them dead."

And Stephens, of Georgia, it is said gives a similar reason for his retiring at present from public life.
"As there is bound to be a smash up," he racily says, "I am for getting off at the first station."

The presentments of these distinguished Democrata accord precisely with our own. An awful catastrophe is icevitable. We entrest, nay, we implore all the numerous and excellent friends in Kentacky we have on board the Damocratic train to leave at the August station. Save yourselves!

The Revival and the Lessons. By Jumes W. Alexander, 1949.

This is the title of a work consisting of fugitive papers beying reference to the late great awakening throughout America upon the subject of religion. The author is a distinguished divine of New York. In the preface he gives a brief account of the origin and progress of the revival, together with the leading features which have characterized it and distinguished it from every other work. and progress of the revival, together with the leading features which have characterized it and distinguished it from every other work of grace in which the Church of Gag has heretofore rejoiced. Numbering Streets—Louisville stands greatly in need of a new numbering of the houses and lots in the dentity populated and business districts. The present numeration is utterly valueless, from the irregularities and the wearing off of the painted signs. The catvasters for the new Directory find much inconvenience from this, and we learn that they have made a proposition to the City Council, not cally to renumber the bouses, but to take a census of the Pepulation at domainess statistics. This is a self-the population at domainess statistics. This is a self-the population and the more the difficulty experienced in receiffying the numeration.

The catvasters for the new Directory find much inconvenience from this, and we learn that they have made a proposition to the City Council, and the Commissioners from Perisady formed with France, England, and Sardinia. If the matter is not brought to a satisfactory solution, it certainly will not be for want of a nutlitude of controller, in which there is said to be safety. However, the work of the Argentine and Urugan Republic—all of the Councils, for the longer it is delayed the greater will be the conflusion and the more the difficulty experienced in receiffying the numeration.
